MAUD POWELL WINS AND HOLDS BIG AUDIENCE IN OPERA HOUSE

With the first notes drawn from the strings of her violin last night Maud Powell delighted, then thrilled and lastly conquered her hearers in the Royal Hawaiian Opera House. Nor did she stop there. From first to last her concert was a crescendo movement, rising to a constantly higher and higher level of emotional values until it culminated in the brilliant Fantaisie de Faust, one of those "show pieces," bristling with technicalities, which were no difficulties to the genius that soared over them with the ease of a mounting bird.

Miss Powell chose as her first number Colridge-Taylor's Concerto in G Minor, and three movements. It was not until she reached the Allero movement that the musician seemed to get thoroughly in touch with her audience, but from that moment and until the final note died away she held the packed house, even to the row of standers at the back, held it despite the volleys of handclappings that greeted several of her efforts, held it in spite of the heat, held it in spite of every thing.

She was warmed to her work when she began Bach's Sonata, in E Major, and in both the movements of this wonder-music she showed her mastery of the strings, and poured a shower of golden notes over the rows of people as the sun pours golden notes of light. From Bach, whom she loves, to Mozart whom she loves, was an easy transition for this musician. That composer's Rondo in G Major, from the suite written for the wedding of Elizabeth Haffner, to his Minuet, the music went with hardly a pause, wonderful in its limpid purity, compelling in its charm of harmony. Twice she played this, at the demand of the crowd. Nor did the levy drop when she essayed Massenet's Meditation from "Thais," and her playing of Sarasate's Spanish Dance, No. 8, drew another encore. In all this Miss Powell was ably seconded by her accompanist Harold Osborn Smith, and the listeners were fully prepared for his technical perfection in the single number on the program, in which his name stood alone. It was Moszkowski's Caprice Espagnole, and he played with the brilliancy and nerve of the master. The program concluded with two extra numbers, the Scene de la Czaïka, and the Trauerlied.

REV. H. P. JUDD QUILTS

Word received from Maui today brings the news that the Rev. H. P. Judd, one of the best-known ministers in the territory, has decided to resign his post as pastor of the Kahului Union Church. Mr. Judd has been in charge of that church since March, 1910. He announced his intention of leaving the charge at Sunday's morning service. He said that he intends taking up work in the Sunday schools of the territory exclusively. This labor of his has been under his charge since last April and in his statement he says that he finds he can not do it full justice and remain as pastor of the Union church.

Wednesday is the day during which the Museum is closed for janitor work, but tomorrow, being New Year's Day, the trustees of the Bishop Estate have decided to open it to the public.

DIVIDENDS REDUCED

"The extra dividend of Kahuku, to have been due on December 31, has been omitted, but we hope to maintain the regular dividend of ten cents a share.

"The regular dividend of Hawaiian Commercial will not be changed, at least so far as we can see at present—there is no need for immediate action. You know Hawaiian Commercial has paid a large amount in extras the last two years.

"The regular dividend of Hawaiian Sugar will not be cut at present, although a little later in the year it will probably be necessary to adjust Hawaiian Sugar's dividend to meet the new conditions."

Hawaiian Commercial's monthly dividend is 25 cents a share, and Hawaiian Sugar's 30 cents a share.

Haiku and Paia's dividend expressed in percentage corresponds to the par value of the shares, which is $100. Closing quotations of the stocks whose dividends have been arranged for the new year as above on yesterday's stock sheet were as follows:

Haiku, last sale, 215; bid, 135; asked 160.

Paia, last sale, 240; bid, 135; asked, blank.

Hawaiian Commercial, last sale, 33; 32.50, or 36300; Hawaiian Electric, bid, 34; asked, blank. Hawaiian Sugar, last sale, 34; bid, 33; asked, blank.

Kahuku, last sale, 14; bid, 10; asked, 14.

Brewer Group

Following is a statement of dividends arranged for the beginning of the year in the C. Brewer & Co., Ltd., group:

C. Brewer & Co., one and one-half per cent a month, same as at present.

Monomui, one per cent monthly until further notice, reduced from one and one-half per cent.

Peepee, one per cent monthly until further notice, reduced from two per cent paid the last half of this year.

Hawaiian Agricultural Co., one and one-half per cent monthly, as it has been since the change in capitalization through a stock dividend.

Onomea, thirty cents a share from forty cents monthly paid since increase of capital stock by a stock dividend.

Other companies in the Brewer group have not yet adjusted their dividends for the ensuing period.

A distribution of $176,662.50 to help make a happy new year for the fortunate distributees is made in today's dividend list, which is as follows:

C. Brewer & Co., $1.50, or $45,000; Ewa, 20 cents, or $50,000; Waimanalo, 4%; Hilo Railroad common, lots of 5 shares each at 7, a dividend of one-half point; Kekaha, 5 at 150; Hilo Railroad 1901 at 150; Hilo Railroad 1901 at 150; Hilo Railroad 1901 at 150.

Considerable business, both on the board, though small parcels with the exception of Hawaiian Commercial, is recorded today's stock sheet. Onomea is an advance of $2, and Hawaiian Commercial one of $1.25, while Oahu has fallen off five-eighths of a point in five drops. Kekaha is down three points to 150 for 5 shares. Other sugars are unchanged. Hilo Railroad is still in the declining class. Sales were as follows:

Onomea, 10 and 20 at 25; Honolulu Breveting & Maltng, 25 shares unchanged at 22.50; Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar, 100, 35, 300 and 1,000 shares at 23.50; Oahu, 5 shares at 23.50; 23.37 1/2, 5 and 10 at 23 1/2, 10 at 23 1/2, 5 and 10 at 23 1/2; Oiaa, 5, 5 and 4; McBryde, 100, 5 and 5 shares at 4; Hilo Railroad common, lots of 5 shares each at 7, a dividend of one-half point; Kekaha, 5 at 150; Hilo Railroad 1901 at 150.
